SPRING SUMMER 2022

PREMIUM

Love for mountains runs in my veins thanks to my family. My dad brought me with him on the first easy hikes, which then became longer and steeper. A via ferrata was just the logical next step, followed by rock climbing and by glaciers.

I think that is how it works: you find your initial angle because an idea pops into your mind or because someone sparks curiosity into you and then you explore it. It is natural: mountains are a constant call for seeing what is behind the next turn, the next hill or the next summit.

Every radical change is a huge drive. It is a non-linear development process, but it has some inherent beauty: every time you learn that you are still able and willing to learn and to progress.

We go to the mountains to find a natural contact with the world, to fulfill ourselves, and to connect with others.

This is the essence of "engineered in the Dolomites", which also applies to ourselves as people. We are engineered in the Dolomites and in the mountains from all over the world.

The vision of the world that we put in our work is the raw energy of first approaches, informed by the knowledge of our heritage and tradition. We provide efficient answers to new needs by staying true to ourselves - to the values Salewa stands for.

We are in daily contact with professional athletes, mountain guides and other mountain professionals who want to take new, first steps. They challenge us with their needs, wishes and ideas to create high performing products for what they love to do on rock, scree, ice, snow, or thin air. Their precious input helps us to progress on every detail of shoes, apparel equipment and technical hardware. Details which are not only appreciated by professional users, but also by mountain enthusiasts: performance, comfort, and reliability. Because it does not matter how far you go, but how you go.

This is the essence of progressive mountaineering: being bold enough to make the next step, no matter from where you start. That single step from what you know to what you will learn is what makes you a progressive mountaineer.

SEVEN KEY WORDS: SOFT, WEARABLE, NATURAL, STRETCHY, BREATHABLE, HEAT-REGULATING, COMFORTABLE.

In 2017, we launched our research and development activities to create Alpine Hemp, a collection with a low environmental impact including pieces that adapt to whatever you might be experiencing. They'll keep you warm, cool, or protect you based on your surroundings, so that you might even forget what you're wearing.

WHAT IS ALPINE HEMP?

We were initially attracted to hemp because of its natural comfort and heat-regulating capabilities, in addition to the fact that it has a low environmental impact. Compared to cotton, it's longer lasting, retains temperature, and is breathable, heat- and UV-resistant, and antibacterial. It can also absorb up to 30% moisture whilst continuing to keep you feeling dry. But the most important feature of hemp is that it's the most resistant, long-lasting natural fibre, making it ideal for climbing gear. It's a pleasure to wear against the skin, similar to linen. Hemp can also be produced without the use of pesticides, synthetic fertilisers or GMO seeds. Unlike cotton, hemp requires little (or no) water, and, what's more, it improves the health of soil, replenishing it with vital nutrients and preventing erosion.

Alpine Hemp is the result of a hybrid technology developed by Salewa in collaboration with its fabric suppliers. We employed complex weaving and knitting techniques to enhance the natural features of hemp, combining it with other fibres such as recycled polyester, organic cotton and elastane. Specifically, we developed a new and exclusive scratch-resistant stretch fabric that incorporates hemp, recycled polyester and elastane.

WHY USING HEMP FIBRE?

Hemp grows quickly, which makes it more sustainable and allows to create a fabric with intriguing qualities. Hemp fibre isn't new; it's the oldest fibre in existence, now with a promising future. It's also one of the most undervalued and least understood plants. Hemp fibre was widely used until the beginning of the twentieth century. A large portion of fabrics and textiles were made using hemp fibre in countries all over the world. However, following economic restrictions due to political choices favouring other fibres, this industrial sector literally disappeared. And let's make one thing clear – hemp fibre is not marijuana. You can't smoke it. While from a botanical perspective it does belong to the Cannabaceae family, hemp fibre is a non-psychoactive relative of cannabis and contains almost no traces of THC (tetrahydrocannabinol).

THE DEVELOPMENT OF ALPINE HEMP

In the Alps, hemp production has a longstanding tradition. In the past, Italy was the biggest producer of high-quality hemp fibre. But, in the '60s, much of the related skills, knowledge and machinery were moved to China. For this reason, today we purchase hemp fibre from expert producers in Heilongjiang, a region in northeast China dominated by mountain chains. Salewa has made a long-term commitment to support the Alpine economy and the use of natural resources. Ten per cent of the revenues generated from the sale of the Alpine Hemp collection will be invested in efforts to begin cultivating this fibre and producing and manufacturing hemp clothing in the Alpine region.

Our new Alpine Hemp products are practical, well designed, have a low environmental impact and are OEKO-TEX® certified.

WHAT IS THE SALEWA COMMITTED ICON?

Salewa is committed to protecting the environment and all people who play a part in the manufacturing and use of its products, including the communities along the supply chain.

Salewa has defined the guidelines and criteria for the pure icon internally and has officially started applying the icon starting from its Fall/Winter 2021 collection (FW21). The icon has been developed to be applied on any Salewa product.

WHY IS SALEWA USING THIS ICON?

The market today is overflowing with information and consumers are struggling to understand what products actually stand for and what their real value is. Salewa is committed to providing high-quality, durable mountain sports products to its consumers while leaving as little trace as possible in the nature. We have been putting a lot of effort into creating and selling products that are socially and environmentally responsible. We have a long way to go, but we are improving step by step.

We want our consumers to know what they are buying, to have all the necessary information to make an informed purchase. The Salewa Pure Icon has been developed to facilitate the sales process by providing a easy to see icon next to the products that meet our strict internal criteria.

WHERE WILL THE ICON BE APPLIED?

The icon will be implemented on the PIM and subsequently on workbooks and on salewa.com. The intention is to start applying the icon on hangtags in order to improve on-product communication and facilitate sustainability communications.

Items with the Salewa Committed Icon indicate high-quality, durable mountain sports products developed by leaving as little trace as possible in nature. In order for a product to get the Salewa Committed icon, it has to fulfill both mandatory and at least one additional criteria. On the previous page there is a visual representation of these criteria.

In the workbook Spring Summer 22 you can find the detailed explanation of the Salewa Committed Criteria.

The launching season of Salewa Committed was FW21, focusing on the apparel collection. Starting form SS22 the Salewa Committed Icon will be cross-divisional by being introduced and applied also to our equipment and footwear collections.
